

Data Debunks Senators' Worries About PREVAIL Act and Drug Prices

Media Mentions

December 05, 2024 | IAM | 1 minute read | Austin

Bracewell's Kit Crumbley told IAM that he does not see the PREVAIL Act – the Patent Trial and Appeal Board reform legislation – harming generic drug companies “because they don’t use the PTAB that much.”

Crumbley suggested that the bill's primary target would be high-volume petitioners, no matter the industry.

“Anecdotally, it’s Apple, Google and large tech companies that are the frequent users of the PTAB,” he said. “Generic drug companies simply don’t use IPRs [inter partes review] that much.”

Related People

Christopher

Partner

AUSTIN

+1.512.494.3621

kit.crumbley@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Technology

Related Practices

Intellectual Property

Intellectual Property Litigation