

Strategic Communications

Our strategic communications team is housed within the Bracewell Policy Resolution Group (PRG) -->. We design and implement comprehensive and targeted communications strategies to reach key policymakers, elected officials and the general public.

PRG is the only government relations firm in Washington, DC that provides:

- corporate positioning
- reputation management
- crisis communication
- financial communications services
- litigation communications support
- social media advocacy and strategy development

We use both traditional and digital media service, as well as a variety of platforms — including social media — to enhance and amplify our clients' messages. This work includes:

- strategic communications for an association of advertising technology companies to highlight the industry's self-regulation and support is advocacy efforts with regulatory agencies and the US Congress
- government relations and strategic communication to a broad-based coalition of electric utilities to ensure the continued viability of diverse, affordable and reliable electric power supply in the United States
- government relations, stakeholder relations, strategic communications and legal representation for an energy company seeking to develop offshore wind projects in the United States
- legislative and regulatory matters, as well as strategic communications and crisis communications support, for an industrial gas company

BRACEWELL

- brand management for an industry association, including traditional and social media support to advance the organization's goals of attracting and retaining women workers in a traditionally male-dominated field
- government relations, strategic communications and media relations for a manufacturing association, including interactions with Congress and the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC)
- government relations and strategic communications for national cancer advocacy organizations on issues related to federal funding and awareness raising
- government relations, strategic communications, media relations and reputation management for numerous consumer product companies and associations on product safety issues (including product recalls) related to the CPSC
- strategic communications aspects of litigation related to the safety of an outdoor product manufacturer's product
- media and community relations outreach for a pipeline company, including consultation with mayors, city councils, state regulatory agencies, community groups, labor unions, environmental groups and local residents across several states
- advocacy for renewable energy companies on issues related to the US Department of Energy (DOE), including pursuing an Energy Star rating, navigating and pursuing financing under such incentives, including loan guarantees, automotive technology loans and efficiency-based programs
- design, development and implement a multi-platform communications and social media campaign for a US foundation advocating for the human rights of people oppressed by a theocratic regime in the Middle East

Key Contacts

Paul

Senior Principal

WASHINGTON, DC +1.202.828.1714

Recognition

Our government relations and strategic communications work has earned us top recognition. From 2021-2023, Bloomberg Government recognized Bracewell as a top performing lobbying/law firm, and in 2020 the National Law Review named us the “Go-To Thought Leader for Election and Legislative News” for PRG Pulse, which provides insight and analysis on the political races that shape federal policy.

Our practice and lawyers are also ranked in Chambers USA, Legal 500 US and other directories.

Chambers USA

- Nationwide Government Relations

Legal 500 US

- Government Relations

U.S. News – Best Lawyers

- Washington, DC Government Relations Practice